Watson Launches New and Refreshed FRAMES™ Panel System

Poulsbo, WA---October 21, 2010---Watson Desking introduces a new and refreshed FRAMES Panel System. Ideal for dividing team spaces and providing power, voice, and data to open plan workstations, the new FRAMES selection has been refined to include new design details, sizes and finishes. You may now order the new FRAMES panels by contacting your Watson Desking Project Coordinator.

According to Cia Mooney, VP of Product Development, "The new selection of segmented panels offers users more choices. Open plan spaces may be configured with clear or frosted glazed upper tiles to enhance user sightlines while providing greater transparency. When paired with Watson Desking's new ZO storage, FRAMES creates a subdued backdrop appropriate to modern workspaces. New monolithic panels are available in fabric or laminate providing great value and a new crown top detail neatly caps each panel. We've added new finishes and textiles to keep FRAMES current with today's design trends and in sync with Watson Desking's refined palette."

FRAMES is available in three heights - 42", 54" and 66", and six widths - 24", 30", 36", 42", 48", and 60". A low-profile foot has been added for increased stability. A power, voice, and data raceway provides four power connections per panel for streamlined cable management in team spaces.

Included with this bulletin is a FRAMES sell sheet. For additional information on the new FRAMES panel system, including the introductory pricer, please visit <http://www.watsondesking.com/frames>.
